WE NOMINATE

Robert Henry Dicke, brilliant 49-year old physicist, who this week has carried forward a three-year old "community tradition" dedicated to bringing talented and interested youngsters into direct contact with the wonders of science. As the Princeton Junior Museum's third Christmas Lecturer, following the lead of two of his Princeton University associates, Allen Goodrich Shenstone (1963) and Hubert Newcombe Alyea (1964), Dicke Wednesday afternoon in Palmer Physical Laboratory, before an enthusiastic audience drawn from grades 4 through 8, discussed one of the "hottest topics" in modern science—"Gravity and the Exploding Universe."

From the point of view of major scientific news developed during 1965, Dicke's lecture couldn't be more timely, for it is linked with his contributions to the "grandest revelation science can envision: is the universe fixed and unchanging, the so-called 'steady state,' or was it born in the 'big bang' of primordial explosion?" An idea first advanced by Dicke — that the light of the fireball that created the universe several billion years ago might still be observable as microwaves — has now been confirmed by several groups of scientists working independently and has pushed the "big bang" theory to the threshold of confirmation.

In keeping with his conception that the remains of the explsion that occurred when the present universe was born are still identifiable, Dicke and his associates mounted a special antenna atop Guyot Hall to measure the intensity of radio waves from outer space. Then, in what "The New York Times" said may prove to be "one of the remarkable coincidences in scientific history," they discovered that other researchers at the Bell Telephone Laboratories, using a huge antenna built as prototype for the Telstar program, had observed an identical microwave-background in the sky. The findings of the two groups fitted together like a jigsaw puzzle.

The fifth distinguished scientist to hold the Cyrus Fogg Brackett Professorship since it was brought into being in 1927, the St. Louis-born Dicke has attracted international attention over the past decade for his probings into the problems of gravitation. For instance, some two years ago, on the basis of "an exquisitely performed experiment" carried out in a pit a few hundred yards from Palmer Stadium, he and his associates confirmed, to an accuracy of 3 parts in 100 billion, that objects of different materials fall at precisely the same rate — a key confirmation because the assumption is basic to Einstein's general theory of relativity.

Dicke, a consultant to industry and government, received his bachelor's degree from Princeton with the Class of 1939 and continued his advanced studies at the University of Rochester, earning his doctorate in 1941. A staff member of the famed Radiation Laboratory at MIT throughout World War II, he joined the University's Department of Physics in 1946 and was elevated to the Brackett Professorship in 1959. His standing as a teacher-scientist was recently underscored by his appointment to the 7-member student-faculty advisory committee charged with "the task of proposing methods of inquiring into the present quality of undergraduate instruction at Princeton."

For strengthening the program of one of Princeton's truly distinctive institutions, the Junior Museum; for sharing with others his sense of excitement in man's unending search for knowledge; for his outstanding achievements as a scientist; he is our nominee as

OVER THE SHOULDER

Goodbye, 1965. One year ago, TOWN TOPICS began its yearly survey of the past 12 months, "It was quiet in Princeton in 1964" and ended with " . . . 1965 should be a year worth watching."

It was indeed. And it was anything but quiet. It was, in fact, a year of disquiet, a year in which almost irreducible lines were laid down dividing this single community into two. And if 1966 is to mean anything on a municipal level, Princeton's residents in Borough and Township will have to leave behind the bitterness of the past months and deliberately seek ways in which they can work together as residents of a single Princeton.

"Long-awaited" was the adjective everybody applied to the Dilley report, prepared over a period of two and one-half years by a dedicated body of 50 Princeton men and women under the managerial guidance of Robert V. Dilley. (Later in 1965 Mr. Dilley was named to direct the Princeton Chamber of Commerce.))

"Consolidation of Princeton Borough and Princeton Township is not practicable at the present time," was the Dilley verdict. The reason was a financial one: the New Jersey constitution does not allow separate tax rates in two parts of a community, and at present, Township residential taxes are about 34% higher than the Borough's.

Wait. "We have a natural setup for consolidation if we can get around the financial problem," said Stanley C. Sawyer when the report was released, but everybody seemed to agree that it may take 20 years before the Borough and Township will balance.

Actually, the Dilley conclusion was an open secret around town before the report was formally released, and the "no" didn't come as much of a bombshell.

The fireworks that set the town ablaze came from the school merger referendum, and it is school merger that will make 1965 memorable in Princeton.

Remember the first public meeting at Princeton High School last spring when the auditorium curtains were slowly pulled back to reveal all 18 school board members, nine Borough and nine Township, sitting in a unanimous semicircle?

That was the evening the "Blue Book" report was explained, section by section, as signed by all 18 members of the two boards.

Bomb. But on April 10 at a Saturday press conference, the unanimity exploded as Borough Board president Graham Rohrer detonated his bomb, and announced that as an individual Borough citizen, he could not support merger. The announcement was a total surprise to all board members, Borough and Township.

"I still believe merger will be favorably accepted by the community," stated George Grate, president of the Township Board.

But the lines began to form. The Friends of Public Education, organized before Mr. Rohrer's statement, joined battle with the "S.O.S." — "Save Our Schools" — group, whose formation was announced in July, and although a professional opinion survey showed 62% of the Borough's voters in favor and 17% undecided, 84% of the Township's voters in favor and 12% undecided, the percentage in the Borough began slowly to shift and the "undecideds" of the spring became the "No's" of the fall.

The fear of a tax increase; the fears of Negro parents that their children might be forced into an artificial integration field together by busing; a deep-seated conservative fear of change — all these combined to defeat merger by 158 Borough votes.

Join With Us? As the year drew to a close, the Township announced a new committee to make plans for "Township High," and the Borough Board had asked the Township "to join with us in a study of any reasonable alternatives to preserve this association (of Borough and Township)."

Meanwhile, the Borough's new John Witherspoon School grew and grew and everybody wondered "What to do with the old Witherspoon School?" A committee was formed to study the possible use of several buildings around town, the old school among them. ("A committee has been formed to study . . . " is one of those bulwark Princeton phrases. It's a "committee-to-study" town.)

Two Alumnae. Two blithe young ladies were the first happy graduates in June of a new school — Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart. And the combined Miss Fine's-Princeton Country Day started school this bright autumn on the new Princeton Day School campus on The Great Road. There was smoke and fire at PDS, too, as Thomas Hartmann resigned as headmaster in March. His successor, Douglas O. McClure, was announced early in December.

And gloom at Princeton High! No more student-driven cars, except by very, very special permit. The density became so high at the high school that two, new pre-fab classroom buildings were erected, just in time for the opening school bell. (And curtains, even!)

Got a Library Card? A more permanent building is still being built, brick by brick, on the corner of Wiggins and Witherspoon. It is the new Joint Public Library for Princeton, a welcome symbol of harmony and unity between the two Princetons. Ground was broken in June.

With Consolidation set aside, the Borough went ahead with plans for a new Borough Hall on the land where Miss Fine's School once stood. The old Borough Hall, its plaster trembling, its jail a medieval keep, will pass into the hands of Princeton Seminary.

There was some building going on in the Township, too, with completion of an annex to house all the growing pains, and the startling possibility of a brand-new Township Hall paid for by a United States post office on the ground floor. 1965 was the year the Township said "No!" to a post office on North Harrison Street in a residential area.).

And speaking of buildings! High-rise, in the form of the University's math-physics complex, set up a column of smoke, fire and controversy, still unresolved as the year ended. (Although the University got it's math-physics OK). It was the first town-gown eruption in some time.

Government would remain stable in Borough and Township following an apathetic election campaign (who had energy left after school merg-

THE ACHING TOOTH: Cavities on Nassau Street, on Wiggins Street, on Chambers Street; that's the hole story for 1965. It was mostly Public Service, reinforcing its electric service lines, but there was a snarl or two which could be traced to construction of the new public library. Mostly, Princeton drivers were resigned and patient.

ce?) Mayoes Patterson and Schafer were both re-elected.

My Name's in the Paper. Not only school board members and public officials made news, however. The Princeton citizen himself appeared with happy frequency in the news columns.

Mrs. Marie H. Katzenbach resigned from the State Board of Education after many years of tremendous service, and almost in the same breath, her son, Nicholas, deB. Katzenbach, a graduate of Princeton County Day and the University, was named United States Attorney General.

Who else? Well, "Lady Bird" Johnson came to Princeton twice in 1965 (once to "Morven," once to the Woodrow Wilson School) and Mr. and Mrs. Bartolino celebrated their Golden Anniversary. Joseph J. Redding retired after 45 years in the plumbing and heating business and Dr. Ernest A. Lynton became dean of Rutgers' new undergraduate college on the Kilmer campus.

Edward Ollivierre, 13, captured a live grenade from the hand of a friend and probably saved a good many lives. Roger Sessions retired from the University faculty and a cute blonde named Janet Bond, age 21, got herself elected Mercer County Coroner.

There was a change of venue for three familiar faces: Mrs. Geoffrey Sage resigned as executive director of the Red Cross and assumed the Junior Red Cross leadership and Thomas Hilbish departed as director of the Princeton High School. Choir. Howard Stepp, distinguished juvenile referee, was replaced by a county-chosen panel.

$$$$. It was a lively year — but isn't it always? — for Princeton's fund-raisers: $5,300 from the Smith auction; $3,000 for high school scholarships; $2,085 for Unitarian scholarships; $11,040 from the Jaycees for the hospital's building fund; $15,000 to the fund from the Hospital Aid Committee; $40,000 from the Dinky Hospital Fete, held this year for the first time in Community Gardens; $2,000 to the hospital from the Lions. And $2 from Karen Gibson to the hospital building fund. She sold old Hospital Fete posters to her friends.

But for all the money — no blood. Princeton, in one of the community's rare failures of public spirit, didn't rise to the desperate appeals of hospital and Red Cross for blood donors.

Water all around in Princeton in 1965, except where it was needed: in the water-table. It was a year of drought, continuing the dry spell that began in 1961. "It wants to rain . . ." was the plaintive explanation of Princeton's weatherman, David Ludlum, back in the summer, but . . .

Most of the water news came from the renewed fluoridation controversy. In an off-again-on-again maneuver, the Princeton Water Company finally decided to fluoridate, but many Princeton citizens objected and the "Mailbox" column of TOWN TOPICS and the letterboxes of municipal officials were full of protests.

That adjective "long-awaited" was brought out again when it was finally announced that Princeton's municipal swimming pool would be ready for the first stroke on Memorial Day, 1966. Ground has not yet been broken, but the May 30 opening date has not been changed.

The Outside World. But it was not only the local controversies of merger, fluoridation and swimming pools that occupied Princeton in 1965. More than in most years, Princeton residents were deeply concerned with the world and its problems.

Viet Nam and the civil rights struggle were foremost among these. Some Princeton residents marched in protest against American involvement in Viet Nam and others wrote heart-felt letters to service men in the line of battle assuring them support. One Princetonian died as a result of the Viet Nam fighting. He was David Graham, a former student at Princeton High School.

The Selma-Montgomery march drew ten Princeton residents south to a courageous stand in support of civil rights. Here at home, churches sponsored inter-racial dialogues brought grievances and fears out into the open.

Princeton's young people set an example in civil rights involvement, and Jay Lockard, Lynn Goldsmith and Gail Blattenberger braved bullets and bombs in the south in their efforts to achieve justice. Younger brothers and sisters went with the tide, too, and sent tons of books and clothing to poverty pockets in Appalachia.

The Docket. It was relatively quiet in Princeton in the police and fire departments. The year brought one tragic fatality, the death of Richard F. Schulz, hit by a car as he walked along Elm Road, and one homicide, the fatal stabbing of Freddie L. Wilson in August.

The one big fire was the

RE-ALIGNMENT SET

For Jackson Street. Princeton's need for a thoroughfare parallel to Nassau Street came closer to fulfillment this week. The Borough announced that negotiations with property owners have reached such a stage of harmony that the re-alignment of Jackson Street may begin soon, perhaps even this spring.

No final financial arrangements have been worked out, Mayor Henry S. Patterson said, and no commitments have been made. However, the mayor said he was confident of amicable solutions all along the line.

"Property owners were almost co-operative," the mayor said. "All were agreed that the re-alignment should be done all at once and done right — not with half, dead-end solutions."

Borough officials, particularly Councilman Ellwood W. Godfrey, have been conferring with property owners for many months, exchanging ideas and re-working plans.

The affected properties belong to the First Baptist Church, which will lose its rear garage; Palmer Square, Inc., which will lose a few trees and some parking spaces from its lot when Chambers is put through, but will gain the old Jackson road-bed (for a net loss of land, however); and Mrs. Arthur H. Mitchell, whose property on the corner of Avalon and John, will become the extension of Chambers.

The property of Flory Tote (Tote's Market) at Witherspoon and Jackson, will be extended north into the old Jackson Street. Palmer Square, Inc. will make available a piece of its land on Green Street. Palmer Square, Inc. will make available a piece of its land on Green Street to the First Baptist Church, probably for a Sunday School building or a manse.

The next step, Mayor Patterson said, will be to pass an ordinance appropriating the money required to buy the properties.

READY FOR 1966

Borough, Township. Princeton's two governments will organize themselves for the year ahead this Saturday in traditional New Year's Day meetings.

In the Borough at noon, Mayor Henry S. Patterson will be sworn in for his third term as mayor. There will be no new faces on Borough Council; Councilmen William H. Walker and Alfred E. Sorensen were both re-elected.

In the Township, the re-organization meeting will be held at 11 a.m. because Committeeman Carl C. Schafer wants to be at Borough Hall to see his brother sworn in as fire chief for 1966.

Mr. Schafer has been chairman of Township Committee—that is, "mayor" of the Township—for the past year, and it is expected that he will be chosen again by his fellow Committeemen to head the Township's government. Mr. Schaefer was elected to his second term on Committee last fall.

A new Committeeman — Burton Peskin — will be sworn into office on New Year's Day. Outgoing Committeeman John O. Green received from his colleagues on Monday night the traditional gift of his name-plate backed by an inscribed silver plaque.

Borough appointments will be essentially the same. Gordon Griffin will be re-appointed Borough Attorney, Kester Pierson assistant attorney and Thomas Cawley, engineer.

David L. Frothingham, an attorney who lives on Elm Lane, will replace Frank Hubby on the Borough Zoning Board. Mr. Hubby has served 12 years on the zoning body.

Mrs. Arthur P. Morgan and Miss Mildred Kaplan have been re-named to three-terms on the Board of Health, Mrs Edward G. Hofgesang to a four-year term on the Local Assistance Board and Mrs. E. Baldwin Smith to a five-year term on the Joint Library Board.

END OF AN ERA: Bill Bradley walks off the Dillon Gym court for the last time to a standing ovation from 3,000 fans that lasted several minutes. The climax of his career in March, 1965, was the high point of Princeton athletics during the year now ending.

What Kind of Farewell?

Will it snow
On New Year's Eve
As '65
Prepares to leave?

The midweek turn to considerably milder weather may well be followed by precipitation but chances are it won't turn white. So far, there is a deficiency of about five inches in the normal snowfall for the current season.

Temperatures will begin to drop about Friday, but nothing really frigid is in sight. In brief, the New Year's entry is expected to be quiet — weatherwise, at least.

gutting of the Sharlin light fixture store in February.

Refreshment for the spirit . . . Second Presbyterian Church was re-christened "St. Andrews" and Witherspoon Presbyterian welcomed a new minister, the Rev. Harold Thomas. Friends Meeting added a wing toits "First Day School" and St. Paul's hoisted two new bells into the big tower.

There was jubilation on College Road as McCarter Theatre celebrated its 35th anniversary. There was Sheridan and Shakespeare, Shaw and Brecht, Pirandello and Ibsen in the spring and fall repertory series. And some students gave Euripedes in Greek.

The new Art Association moved into its new Nassau Street quarters, and ended its first year with "an active and creditable record," in the words of TOWN TOPICS' art reviewer.

FOR ALL OF US: Marine Corporal David Graham was the first Princetonian to give his life in the Viet Nam fighting.

For dazzle, there was Op Art at McCarter, and electronic music at the University. Princeton's symphony orchestra was indefinitely suspended but the Princeton Chamber Orchestra delighted everyone with its "thoroughgoing professionalism and polish." Even the New York critics were delighted.

In 1965 It Was Bradley. The year had hardly begun when Bill Bradley started tearing up the record books at the Princeton, Ivy League and national levels. When the basketball season was over, they wrote new books and gave them to him to put in his trophy case.

Princeton rolled to its third straight Ivy title, its first NCAA regional championship and its first third-place finish in history — almost entirely on the wings of ability credited to this remarkable young man about whom his legion of admirers could not say enough. Sports experts agreed that the last of the many records he set might live through the present century.

Football was the only other sport in which Princeton created more than unusual interest. Until the final game of the 1965 season, the Orange and Black appeared on the verge of completing its second undefeated campaign in a row, but the Tigers fell ambush to a band of Dartmouth Indians.

Princeton High School's top team was Coach Jerry Groninger's track squad, which won 11 of 12. The little Tigers were Looking around the corner to 1966, Princeton could anticipate that new swimming pool, the exciting new John Witherspoon school and the exciting new library.

Would the year and the new legislature find that dusty old friend, the 206 by-pass, any closer to Princeton? Would a route for I-95 finally be laid out any further from Princeton?

And most important of all, would Princeton be able to forget its strife and find the unity of a single community?

"HIGH SOBRIETY" It's the moment for "The Ballade of Annie Lamore" in Triangle Club's 77th annual production, "High Sobriety." The undergraduate musical will be given New Year's night in McCarter Theatre.

News Of The THEATRES

A FIFTH FOR TRIANGLE

Tickets, Please. "High Sobriety" is the first Triangle Club production to win the gold ticket-stub: a fifth performance here in the same season as the first four.

The added performance will be given in McCarter Theatre New Year's Night, Saturday January 1 at 9 p.m. for Triangle fans home from school and college. They missed the openers back in December.

"High Sobriety" is sassy and boisterous, and wears its rave notices with complete lack of modesty. Before coming to McCarter this Saturday, it will wind up a 13-city national tour with a New Year's Eve celebration in Rochester, New York.

Tickets at the McCarter box-office.

YOUNG DANCERS COMING

In Joffrey Troupe. "twenty dancers strong. For its size, there is not a ballet company in the world to match it."

That's the New York Times critic writing about the Robert Joffrey Ballet, the same one that will come to McCarter on Sunday, January 16 at 3 p.m. in a program of contemporary and classic works.

The Joffrey troupe is coming to Princeton under the banner of the Princeton Ballet Society as part of a three-company series. The Royal Winnipeg dancers were here in the fall, and the Princeton Regional Ballet will be back in the spring.

The Joffrey Ballet has performed in Russia the Near and Far East and throughout the United States, including two performances at the White House for President and Mrs. Kennedy.

OFF-BROADWAY

On Princeton. Two humorous new plays, "Happy Ending" and "Day of Absence" will leave off-Broadway for an evening and venture to Princeton for a one-night stand at McCarter on Monday, January 17.

The performances will be given for the benefit of the Sisterhood of Anshe Emeth Memorial Temple in New Brunswick. All seats are on sale at regular prices in the McCarter box-office.

"Happy Ending" deals with the conflicting attitudes between a young Negro and his older aunts. "Day of Absence" muses about the difficulties that might be faced by a middle-sized southern town if all the Negroes suddenly and mysteriously disappeared.

Douglas Turner Ward is the author, Robert Hooks is the producer, Phillip Meister is the director. Mr. Ward is a former journalist and has also been an actor, appearing in such plays as "Raisin in the Sun" and "The Iceman Cometh."

Mr. Hooks is also an actor, and is, in addition, the founder and director of the Group Theater Workshop, a tuition-free school for young actors. Mr. Meister is producer-director of the National Shakespeare Company.

Sam Holden and Erich von Stroheim under Billy Wilder's direction. It's the portrait of a fading film star and is won Three Academy Awards in 1950.

Then, on Friday, January 7, McCarter will really settle down for a full evening of films: a "Mirth and Merriment" festival including Laurel and Hardy in "With Love and Hisses" and three cartoons by Earnest Pinoff. The cartoons are "The Interview," "The Violinist" and "The Critic."

In addition, there will be UPA's animated version of James Thurber's classic, "The Unicorn in the Garden," several examples of comic experimental cinema, Bruce Conner's staccato collage film called "Cosmic Ray," a group of other short films and finally, Alec Guinness' first major success, "Kind Hearts and Coronets," in which he plays eight parts.

"Room at the Top" will be shown on Wednesday, January 12. One of the most famous films of modern times, "Room at the Top" stars Laurence Harvey and Simone Signoret in the story of a young man who achieves success by marrying the daughter of an industrialist and abandoning the woman he really loves. Made in 1958, it set a new standard of cinema realism.

On Friday, January 14, Leopoldo Torre Nilsson's "The Terrace" will be shown as a classic bonus and on Friday, January 21 Marilyn Monroe fans can see their favorite in "The Asphalt Jungle."

THE BEATLES ARE BACK with their unique comedy style and plenty of music in the double feature "A Hard Day's Night" and "Help!" now at the Garden.

NO GRASS SKIRTS!

Ribbons Instead. Rumanian costumes from more than 50 provinces will whirl about the McCarter stage as the Rumanian Folk Ballet dancers perform. The 50 singers, dancers and instrumentalists will come to Princeton on Wednesday, January 26 at 8:30 for a single performance.

The spectacular and intricate costumes include the embroidered garments of the lowlands, the hunting dress worn by men of the Carpathian mountains and that ribbon skirt, which is a "Tole" worn in the Wallachian dances. To make a "Tole", hundreds of ribbons are woven like strands of wool in a complicated checkerboard design. The result is wild and wonderful in a whirling dance like the fast "hora."

Men of the Rumanian plains wear shirts so covered with embroidery that they often weigh more than five pounds. Designs are handed down through the generations, and the shirt is given to a bride-groom by his bride. She may have worked on the shirt since her girlhood.

"Naframa," or kerchiefs, are almost as detailed in their workmanship: decorated as they are with crowns of flowers, beads, glass ornaments and sometimes wires twisted into intricate shapes.

Transylvanian hunting costumes, worn by men, are made of softened animal hides.

PLAYHOUSE

The Great Race (now playing) Nothing is to be taken seriously in this wild and wonderful comedy. Tony Curtis is a storybook hero, so stalwart that it hurts; Jack Lemmon is the blackest villain ever foiled on Celluloid, and Natalie Wood is a bon-bon of a heroine and the loveliest cigar-chomping suffragette you ever did see.

The story concerns a turn-of-the-century automobile race westward from New York to Paris between the Great Leslie (Curtis) and Professor Fate, played by Lemmon at the top of his voice. The pair are followed by Maggie DuBoie (Natalie Wood), determined to report the race to her newspaper. A prairie town welcome for the racers turns into a donnybrook, the cars are marooned on an iceberg, a wild Russian welcome is climaxed by the kidnapping of Maggie and the madness continues at a greater pace.

Keenan Wynne is the Great Leslie's equally pure assistant, Peter Falk is unforgetable as the Professor's stooge. The film includes the most fantastic pie-throwing scene in screen history, a duel right out of "The Prisoner of Zenda" and automobiles with as much personality as their owners. "The Great Race" is a wild and wonderful smash.

GARDEN

A Hard Day's Night and Help (thru Tuesday). Return showings of the Beatles' films which have been box office successes all over the country. Both are socko entertainment for the young in heart, with "A Hard Day's Night" having a slight edge over "Help" as a zany spoof.

PRINCE

Boeing - Boeing (now playing) Jerry Lewis debuts in this film in a new role, that of a sophisticated comic, showing a new and welcome control in his intelligent, restrained comedy performance. The theme is sex and more sex, but everything is so mad that few will be offended.

Tony Curtis appears as an American reporter stationed in Paris, slightly harassed as a man with a complicated love life and a minute-to-minute time-table. Thelma Ritter is his invaluable but outspoken housekeeper.

He shares an apartment with three beautiful Air France hostesses, Dany Saval, Susanna Leigh and Christiane Schmidt.

IT'S NEW To Us

THE MODEST ANTIQUE

In New Shop. If you love antiques but find yourself without a Chippendale wallet the new shop called "Country Antiques" will give you hours of browsing, shopping and buying pleasure.

Country Antiques is across from Davidson's Market at 173 Nassau. It's a small, pleasing crowded little shop, full of unexpected treasures in unexpected corners. The specialty is indeed the small and modestly priced antique, like the $2 milk jug or the $5 cut-glass dish, deep enough for lots of Christmas fudge and pleasantly scalloped around the edge.

There's a cut-glass oil lamp with chimney for $16 and a G. A. Bradshaw etching of Nassau Hall for $15. We wanted to buy right off the wall, a black iron barn hinge which has been converted into a holder for a single candle. But you have to order these and then wait for barn hinges to turn up. (Got an old barn?)

Set down casually among the small pieces are the larger ones, and you'll head straight for the table hutch — you know the kind: a wide bench with a back that comes down over the seat and makes a table. This is a really handsome one.

A Shaker rocker with rush seat has those tiny holes in the back that were used to support a candlestick so you could see to read. The candlestick has long since burned out, but the holes remain. And on this particular rocker, the wooden rungs in front are worn down where Shaker rockers habitually put their feet. $39.50.

A weaver's chair looks like a child's high-chair, but apparently it was used by a weaver sitting at a high loom.

Six matching fiddle-back chairs with plain seats are early Pennsylvania with the original, untouched painting still on the darkly faded olive green wood. And while you're buying furniture, be sure to exclaim over the child's half-back, a bench only a scant 36 inches long, shallow in the seat for a small customer, and obviously hand-carved by some loving grandfather.

For the kitchen, there are little three-tined forks with worn black wood handles, trivets, a heart cooky cutter with many Valentines in its past, a rolling pin and tools whose use is lost in time.

For the bedroom, there is an Italian jewel chest with three swingin' "drawers." This one is signed and dated by the way.

And then . . . old hand-puppets, probably from France . . . old dolls, small ne groom-up . . . a white ironstone pitcher in the wheat pattern and a platter to match . . . a white ironstone tub that would make a delightful punch - bowl for New Year's Eve and a wonderful planter later on . . . two hand-carved wooden figures, seven inches high, dressed in black and looking for all the world like Grant Wood.

STRETCH . . . . . .

And Take A Dive. A tank with a tiger in it might be a tropical swimming pool with you in a tiger bathing suit. English Shop doesn't have the pool — you have to provide that — but it does have the bathing suit. It's a tiger striped stretch tank suit with a neckline that takes the plunge and a back that goes all the way down, almost. Lacing holds the front together, more or less. The tiger stripes have been arranged in a fetching "V" which outdoes nature.

English Shop's other favorite bathing suit for your winter cruise is an olive green lame with no sides at all, only wide, wide black mesh. You'll have a windowpane tan.

A Yard To Eat

Stopping by the Igloo for a re-fuel on a hard roll, we discovered the little restaurant busy preparing yard-long hoagies.

You can use a yard-longer to wash down your New Year's champagne, but you don't have to eat the whole thing. It is the Igloo's fancy to sell you a 36-inch hoagie which you will then run through the slicer and distribute to guests. No guest gets more than an inch and a half. (You know how some guests are: give 'em an inch and they'll eat all the salami.)

Order the yard-long hoagies a day ahead of time: imagine how long it takes to line up those dill pickles?

The Igloo? On Henry Avenue, just off Witherspoon.

South Sea prints characterize the bathing suits from Cole. One of them, in jersey, has modest boy legs and is done in paisley on white — blues, purples, limes, just like a tropical garden.

For cool days in the south, or planning ahead to a northern spring, there is an Evan Picone collection in white trimmed with brilliant turquoise or an eye-wowing fuschia. All in wool.

Begin your Beguine with a windowpane check wool suit in tight, tight weight. Carry on with a turtleneck in turquoise or fuschia and white stripes, worked horizontally and edged CHANGED MAN: Jerry Lewis, long-time exponent of slapstick, plays a slick, sophisticated comedy role in "Boeing-Boeing," held over at the Prince.

mer, each of whom thinks she is his financee. He keeps them apart by keeping track of their flight schedules. But his well-ordered work blows up in his face when the girls are transferred to jets and rival reporter Jerry Lewis arrives to blackmail him.

with solid color at armholes and around the neck.

A double - breasted vest in light-weight wool hopsacking goes with that windowpane checked skirt or with a solid skirt, in turquoise or fuschia. How about a shift to a shift? This one, in wool hopsacking smoothly lined, has slant pockets and a boat neck.

Great big white wool stitches hold the sweaters together. Crochet-work in turquoise or fuschia outlines the bottom and the collar and on a sleeveless model, the armholes. Quite a collection isn't it?

Your everyday southern dress will probably be the little claret cotton with its brief sleeves pajama neckline and patch pockets. It's piped with navy, and it also comes in white with either navy or claret edging.

"Country Junior" provides a size three, if you please, for little girls under a big southern sun. It's a mustard cotton in classic design, with sprays of flowers and a hint of documentary print. The long "leather" sash is optional.

A size 18 for ladies who don't wear size three, is "Country Miss" cotton and orlon blend with slim tucks at the bosom, a round collar and short sleeves. English Shop shows it in the gentlest breeze of willow green.

To wear with tropical slacks, English Shop offers an open-work popover in gossamer white wool, a yellow linen with turnover collar and fly front part way down, and a weightless silk print in the shimmering colors of undersea flowers.

SOFT UNDERFOOT

Kitchen? Sure! Outer's kitchen carpeting may be just the way to spend grandmother's Christmas check. Bahadurian's rug shop has this carpeting in three, six, nine and 12-foot widths to spread out on your kitchen, or even bathroom, floor.

It's vectra polypropylene olefin fibre (aren't you impressed) and it's equally at home indoors or out. You can buy some next summer to lay around your pool, because it's weatherproof and mildew proof, but right now, we're in the kitchen.

Mr. Bahadurian points out that the carpeting is easy on the feet and of course will not slide or slip around. You can clean it as easily as you can wash dishes. Because it's actually nylon, with foam backing, it reduces breakage, so if you drop the Waterford crystal, who cares?

The texture is pebbly, the color is multi, in various combinations, and although the carpeting is easy to clean, the multicolor means you don't have to clean it often.

Tuesday's meeting and appointed him special consultant for the 1966-67 school year.

It also approved a new salary scale for the Borough's 156 teachers which will add approximately $60,000 to the payroll next year "fit fits the Borough's tax position," Finance Chairman John A. Buckland said.

In his letter of resignation, Mr. Waxwood stated that his action was prompted by the coming merger of the Borough's two elementary schools into the new John Witherspoon School. A member of the school system since 1935, he will leave his post as principal on June 30, 1966.

A board consultant, he will be involved in the Higher Horizons program, in finding jobs for students in the work-study program and for the educable students as a resource person for the new social worker and the guidance department as well as the remedial and tutorial programs, Federal aid projects for the disadvantaged child and the teachers' in-service training. He will also study in depth the progress of Negro graduates and drop-outs over the past five years.

Salaries Up. The Board adopted the salary scale approved by the Township school board. Due to "strong differences of opinion" with the two Teachers' Associations Mr. Buckland said that the scale is set for one year only, beginning July 1966. Bones of the contention include maximum salaries and merit raises. The boards hope to begin discussions with the teacher's representatives in January.

Reflecting the national economy, a 10-month contract for a young teacher who has completed four years of college, which paid $4200 in 1962, $5200 during the past three years, will be $5400. Ten-month contracts for teachers with five years of advanced education will range from $5700 to $9900; for those with doctorates or equivalent, the range will be $6000 to $10,400. The average raise is $379.

The board referred to its business manager, William K. Evans, and the finance committee the teachers' request for a 10 to 12 monthly pay option during the coming school year.

Sending Districts. The board approved a tuition increase from $740 to $780 for high school students from the sending districts.

Montgomery Township's request to send its present 8th grade to the high school next fall was tabled until an executive session next week. The board stated that Superintendent Chester R. Stroup and Kenneth Michael, principal of the high school, have presented a solution to the board for study.

"Prior to the referendum, Montgomery was on our list of sending districts to be terminated" President Graham Rohrer said. "During the referendum, the legal machinery was not put into action. We have an overcrowded high school, a direct bi-product of the indecision which has hung over the sending districts for the past four or five years." Action on the Montgomery request will be taken at the January 25 meeting.

Pending a policy decision, the board tabled a request from a teacher in the Little-brook School who lives outside of the sending district to receive her daughter into the high school next fall.

10 TONS TO GO

To Mississippi. About ten tons of food and clothing were assembled from Princeton citizens over the holiday season for shipment to beleaguered Negroes in Mississippi. The collection was sponsored by the Princeton Freedom Center and is now in the University armory on Washington Road awaiting shipment south.

The Center collected approximately $300 in a house-to-house canvass to pay for shipping the food and clothing down to Mississippi; however, $500 more is needed to pay the shipping charges. Or a 10-ton truck.

The clothing and the food are by no means "rummage." One family donated half a dozen clean wool blankets in excellent condition. Several families purchased cases of canned foods and many others gave winter overcoats and sweaters.

"It's wonderful the way Princeton responds to a need like this," said a Freedom Center spokesman. "This is two tons more than we collected last year, and the need really is desperate."

It's Never Too Late . . .
From the 1965 TOWN TOPICS Christmas Appeal
"The grim spectre of mental illness, a phenomenon children find impossible to grasp, hovers over Mrs. A., a pretty, fragile woman, and George, 8, and Bozzie, 4. Only now, as Mrs. A struggles with the financial burdens created by her husband's prolonged hospitalization, is George beginning to realize that his absent father's irritations and outbursts were attributable to a horrible, creeping sickness and never to hatred. He is settling down in school, is no longer taking out his own frustrations by bullying smaller children, and is doing everything within his power to help his mother who, in her turn, is learning how to handle her children alone."
Although the need this year is greater than ever because there are more families which require assistance, the Fund to date has received somewhat less than last year. So far, $2,928.71 has been contributed. It is never too late!
Checks should be made payable to The Town Topics Christmas Fund and mailed to P.O. Box 664, Princeton, N. J. 08540.

Shangle, 31, 446 Nassau Street, was hospitalized last week when his car struck a telephone pole at the corner of Cedar Lane and Nassau. He was alone at the time of the accident which occured last Wednesday at 12:17 a.m.

Taken to Princeton, Pfc. Shangle was placed in the intensive care unit for treatment of a concussion and severe lacerations. Later, he was removed from intensive care and his condition was reported as satisfactory.

Police quoted Pfc. Shangle a saying he did not remember anything about the accident, which damaged the entire front of his 1963 station wagon. It is being investigated by Sgt. Arthur Gallant.

Two youths were injured slightly when their cars collided late Thursday afternoon on Harrison Street near Prospect Avenue.

Lindsay E Robbins, 18, Princeton Road, Plainsboro, received a deep cut on his forehead; the driving of his car, Richard J. Burnett, 21, of Trenton, received contusions. The front ends of both cars were extensively damaged.

According to Police, Robbins was driving on Harrison when the front wheel of his car became hooked in a rut in the road and the collision followed. Police noted that the northbound lane sinks an inch or so at the center line in this area of Harrison. Robbins was ticketed for failing to keep right.

Mr. Burnett was knocked unconscious. He told police he remembered nothing about the accident.

880 Calls for Santa Claus.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

This has been a wonderful Christmas for me, and I want to thank all the children and parents who helped to make it so by taking part in Operation Santa Claus, 1965.

I began receiving calls Sunday, December 12, and they continued through Christmas Eve. I took calls from 1-5 and 7-9 p.m. each day and even a few anxious calls early in the morning. These gift requests came from Princeton and surrounding communities, among them, Highstown, Trenton, Cranbury, Lawrenceville, Yardville and New Brunswick; there was even a call from Jersey City.

I could have had many more, but I thought about 800 calls was enough for me to handle nicely. This is quite a change from the first experimental program in 1947 That Christmas, I was only able to hear 190 children in 15 short hours.

My thanks also go to the local merchants for the annual Santa Claus Fund; all the many people who have promoted this program; Bell Telephone for their wonderful service; and the Cummins Shop for such lovely gift wrapping.

I sincerely hope that all of you have had a wonderful holiday season and that the new year is one of happiness, good will and prosperity.

HENRY A. SCHULTZ

In Memoriam.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I have written a poem about my brother, Marine Cpl. David T. Graham Jr., who died Sept. 27, 1965, from wounds received in Viet Nam.

MY BROTHER

I remember the smile on his hand same face
His kind and gentle touch;
He was my only brother
Whom I loved so very much.

He loved to roam the open plain
With bow and arrow in his hand,
Regardless of the sun or rain
He always took his stand

You may have seen him often
With fishing rod or gun,
For these were his hobbies
Which kept him from fun.

He was very devilish once in awhile
But this I'll overlook,
I'll always remember that tender smile
And the jobs he undertook.

In his youth he was a scout
Hoping to lead a helping hand,
That is why he joined the Marines
When he became a man.

An all-American he wanted to be
His dreams he fulfilled,
I only wish that he could know
How much I love him still.

His Purpose Here he did receive
For bravery I am told;
This I always will believe
For my brother was very bold

His death was quite a shock to me
It didn't seem worthwhile,
But I know my brother would Want me to wear a smile.

He now abides in a peaceful land
I'll join him there some day;
I'm proud to know he was quite a man
That God has taken away.

Editor's Note: Marine Cpl. Graham who lived at 206 Birch Avenue was the first American serviceman from Princeton to give his life in the Viet Nam fighting.

Change Is Progress.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The University hardly needs us to defend its position; however, the recent referenceos to a "retention of unique characteristics" and "keep Princeton Princeton" needs further definition.

There are people in Princeton today who remember when a stagecoach brought deposits over unpaved roads to the Princeton Bank and Trust; when there were suburbs such as Mt. Lucas, Stony Brook and Cedar Grove (each with its own schoolhouse); when State Road didn't exist and trolleys came into a town, one to the building now housing the Red Cross (later a student sandwich shop) and another up Witherspoon Street. There weren't many campus buildings and during the summer Princeton became almost a ghost town.

We parked, without meters diagonally on the "town side" of Nassau Street; movies were closed on Sundays and stores closed Wednesday afternoons. Palmer Square as it was not developed until 1939 and ten years later Firestone Library was erected. Lemon Library and Avalon made way for progress and the Pyne, Howe and Guyot tracts were developed.

Orderly planning is necessary and we applaud the extensive work of the zoning and planning boards. However, we still must realize the very vital fact that each one of us is in Princeton because the University is the major attraction. By virtue of its existence, businesses, industries and individuals located in this area.

The University now finds itself attempting to carry on its affairs by seeking approval of citizens who declare that they "can no longer trust the judgment of the University in its future plans" and cite such varied examples as closing College Road, the architecture of New South, Woodrow Wilson, the art museum, the mathphysics complex, and the removal of Nassau Inn.

It seems to us that the property of the University should not be under the jurisdiction of the local boards. Decisions concerning further campus expansion should be made by the University alone, which can determine better than any of us its present and future needs.

Those calling for a status quo Princeton are as foolhardy as others before us who deplored the loss of the "unique characteristics" of another day. As Dr. Goheen recently stated, "If men are to grow in the knowledge which leads to wisdom (and only so can the world survive) they must be given every educational advantage possible, even though these advantages will inevitably conflict with familiar forms and habits, with our instinctive yearning 'to keep things the way they are.' To hold onto the past acquisitively is foolishness. The past has its importance in the making of the future."

Princeton is ever changing. We wouldn't have it any other way.

Rescue League Thanked.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am taking this opportunity to express my appreciation for The Small Animal Rescue League of Princeton.

Mrs. A. C. Graves and her staff are kind and courteous. They continually show the greatest degree of understanding when placing an animal in the proper home.

I will always be grateful to the League for the wonderful pet and kitty dog I now have. This organization is one that all of Princeton and surrounding areas should be proud of and support to the fullest.

The origin of the ancient custom of roof-topping is also secure. It consists of workmen, locking a green branch or small tree — usually cedar — at the peak of the roof when the last pair of roof rafters has been installed.

"MAGIC AND ILLUSION" Next at Junior Museum. The midwinter program of the Princeton Junior Museum, located on the third floor of Borough Hall will open January 8. Entitled "Magic and Illusion," it will consist of displays of optical and perceptual illusions involving color, mirrors and lenses.

A "magic corner" where children can practice magician's illusions in front of a mirror will be featured. Also on display will be one of the famous distorted perspective rooms developed by Dr. Hadley Cantril. For this show, the museum is requesting the loan of stereopticon viewers, magic tricks, flip-card movies, 3D comic books and the like.

Two special programs will be featured on Thursday and Friday during the museum's holiday week open hours.

On Thursday at 2, Peter and Jamie Bruce will demonstrate "Origami" the art of paper folding. Supplies of origami paper and scissors will be available for those who want to try the process themselves.

Friday morning at 10, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Grey will direct a workshop on "pendulums" to introduce the new Shoebox Library Volume prepared by the Princeton Chapter of the American Association of American Women. Dr. Grey is a research chemist at RMC whose interest in the Pendulum Shoebox was aroused by his wife, a member of the AAUW Shoebox Library Committee.

The pendulum workshop will be repeated during the day under the direction of Samuel Mateer, museum manager.

A fourth Township candidate, Joseph Bachelder, a member of the new Township High School citizens' committee, had not returned his petition to the board secretary as of press time on Tuesday.

Outstanding in the Borough race the petitions taken out by Mrs. Arthur Wagner and by the S.O.S. (Serve Our Schools) committee in behalf of Dr. Alfred Cook, Mrs. Kathy Edwards and Stuart Carothers.

GOING BACK in Town Topics

What was happening in Princeton as other years in the past two decades back, there place in history? Do you remember that . . .

FIVE YEARS AGO

TOWN TOPICS, Dec. 29, 1960 recorded the fact that the outgoing year had been marked by little progress on the proposed study of consolidation suggested 12 months earlier by Township Mayor Kenneth Fairman but reported that 1960 was noteworthy for approval of a referendum which will allow Borough and Township to have a joint public library.

Flooridation was to the news five years ago — both Borough Council and Township Committee approved such a step by the Princeton Water Company. The continuing problems the company was encountering in providing adequate flow and pressure during hot weather led Mayor Raymond F. Male to urge a study of municipal ownership of the privately-operated utility.

December, 1960, was a wintry month that produced a very white Christmas and a few blue faces, around Borough and Township Halls. Snow removal for the 30-day period cost the Borough $12,402 — some $5,000 more that it had budgeted for this service during the entire year.

Details of a major educational undertaking were presented for approval to the Township Planning Board. Its members studied working sketches submitted for the Princeton Day Schools, to be built on a proposed campus on The Great Road.

Princeton brought its Chamber of Commerce into being to replace the old Business Association. The new organization completed its first year with a membership of more than 300.

Elsewhere on the business scene, two shopping centers near town opened — one on Route 206 in Montgomery Township, one on Route 1 in Lawrence Township. The largest real estate transaction in town was the sale by Educational Testing Service of 20 Nassau Street, announced simultaneously with plans for further expansion of its Rosedale Road "campus."

Otherwise in the news in 1960: there were serious fires in the Witherspoon School on Quarry Street and in the First National Bank building, with much of the top floor of the latter structure gutted by flames and water damage felt right on down to the lobby.

Accidents marred the scene: a 8-year old boy drowned in a private swimming pool and a Princeton undergraduate drowned in Dillon Pool On a nearby West Windsor farm, two men were electrocuted while repairing a silo when the ladder they were using brushed against high tension wires.

Changes in Princeton pulpits in 1960 were numerous: the Rev. Dr. Robert T. Spence succeeded Dr. John V. Butler at Trinity Episcopal, the Rev. Donald McIrel came to First Presbyterian and the Rev. David L. Crawford left Second Presbyterian to accept a position at Princeton Theological Seminary. At First Baptist, the Rev. Dr. William T. Parker marked his 20th anniversary.

A number of well-known Princetonians died during the year. Among them: Dr. Charles Erdman, P. MacKay Sturges, Michael Kopfloer and Joseph S. Hall.

TEN YEARS AGO

TOWN TOPICS, Dec. 28, 1955, reported that Princeton Borough was about to experience a political development it had not known for a quarter century: two Democratic Councilmen, Raymond F. Male and Richard W. Colman Jr. would be joined by newly-elected Dan E. Coyle, thus giving their party equality (with Republicans Tristam R. Johnson, Harry A. Fore Jr. and Charles J. Rockwell) for the first time since the early '30's. P. MacKay Sturges was ready to become his fourth term as Borough municipality's mayor, while in Princeton Township the reins were confirmed in the hands of John H. Wallace Jr.

Gen. Robert W. Johnson decided a tract of 38 acres in the area of Rosedale Road in Princeton Township, stipulating that it be used for park purposes and possible school construction. TOWN TOPICS noted that a citizens' committee appointed to discuss the possibility of building a school in that section, but it was felt that "the need for such a school in the Rosedale area may not arise for another decade." On another page in the same issue, TOWN TOPICS published photos gathered for the ground-breaking for the Township's Littlebrook School, scheduled to open in September, 1956.

A new procedure for issuing automobile registrations was being placed in effect by the State. A staggered system was to be undertaken, thus eliminating problems caused by the expiration of all regis rations at the end of the calendar year. At the same time, plans were announced for building a new inspection station and Motor Vehicle Department offices near Baker's Basin on Route 1.

Watch Night and other New Year services planned by Princeton churches listed these pastors: Witherspoon Presbyterian, the Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson; First Presbyterian, the Rev. Dr. John R. Bodo; Lutheran of the Messiah, the Rev. Dr. Richard Loecke; Unitarian, the Rev. Stoughton L. Gettler; Princeton Jewish Center, Rabbi Joseph H. Gelberman.

Asked TOWN TOPICS' Question of the Week: What are your New Year's resolutions, and how long do you think you'll keep them? Irwin W. Weiss, physical education director and basketball and football official, reported that "I have become a little conscious of my weight and plan to push myself away from the dinner table a little sooner." Actually, as Mr. Weiss further reported, it was his wife who became conscious of his weight while watching him officiate at a televised basketball game.

Also in the news ten years ago: increasing use of radar by municipal and state police to curb speeding motorists; receipt by the Borough Housing Authority of $11,000 in federal funds to finance study of an Urban Renewal project in sub-standard areas of Witherspoon Street — the probable beginning, ultimately, of Dr. Thomas Jex Preston's long-time Princeton resident and second husband of the widow of President Grover Cleveland.

Purchase at a sheriff's sale in Trenton of the Princeton Shopping Center from Theodore E. Potts' Clearview Associates by George Warnecke and associates. Bank mortgage action was scheduled to settle the claims of creditors against Mr. Potts' corporation.

Mailboxes, which had been green, were repainted all over town at U. S. Government direction in red and white, weary of the constant reminder that their home was in Tigertown, four young children of an alumnus of another Ivy institution jubilantly reported to their father.

"Wow, our boys in Philadelphia really got even this time! Every mailbox in Princeton has been painted in Pennsylvania colors!"

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

TOWN TOPICS, Dec. 28, 1950 The Christmas week of this year was a weird one. In the space of five days, there were two generally unknown a holdup of the O'Kane Liquor Store at 226 Nassau Street that netted $200, a fatal accident involving a skidding Greyhound bus and discovery of an automobile at the bottom of Lake Carnegie.

The latter, spotted through the ice by 16-year old Catherine Gaston of 58 William Street and 15-year old Barbara Coan of 22 Charlton Street proved to be the automobile driven into the lake some 17 months earlier by W. Leonard Alexander, 49-year old Philadelphia financier. His body identified by a wrist bearing the initials "W.L.A." was found in the car.

Mr. Alexander had been reported missing following his attendance at a class reunion here in June 1949. A search was originally conducted in the vicinity of Carnegie Lake but no trace of him or his car had been found. After the two young girls had spotted it — no more than four feet below the ice — police theorized that it had been dislodged by the flood waters following the horrific rains of Sept. 25, 1950 and had moved to a shallower resting place.

Home front preparedness was returning to the headlines in 1950, as the fighting in Korea gained in intensity. Air sirens were to be tested between noon and 1 p.m. on Saturday, January 13, and Mayor P. MacKay Sturges announced a drive to enlist volunteers in various aspects of civil defense.

January 1 of the New Year was to mark retirement of Princeton's best-known public servant, B. Franklin Bunn, the only man to head governing bodies of both Princeton municipalities, had announced plans to bring his career in this field to an end at the reorganization meeting of the Township Committee. TOWN TOPICS spoke of his "tireless selfless interest in the Princeton he loves so well" and today — 15 years later — he remains a member of the municipality's Planning Board.

At the Playhouse as 1950 was nearing its end: Gary Cooper in "Dallas," a colorful western, followed by "Kim," a swashbuckling version of Rudyard Kipling's adventure story of 19th century India. The Garden was offering "Blanche Fury," adapted from the novel of the same name and starring Stewart Granger and Valerie Hobson.

In a nearby town, a young man kissed his girl good night and got immediate results. Tenants in 12 apartments awoke, one of them stunmooing a police squad car with sirens screaming. Romeo had Juliet's back against 12 apartment bell buttons.

TO OFFER 45 COURSES

At Adult School. The winter term of the Princeton Adult School will begin Thursday, January 27, at Princeton High School, continuing for ten successive Thursday evenings through March 31. A full listing of the 45 courses scheduled will appear next week in TOWN TOPICS.

"The Art of the Baroque" is the title of the major lecture series to be held from 8 to 9 p.m. in the auditorium. Lecturers, all members of the art and archaeology department at Princeton, include John R. Martin, A. Richard Turner, David R. Coffin and Jonathan M. Brown. Their topics range through 17th century painting, sculpture and architecture.

HOW TO REPORT A FIRE

Firemen and police chiefs of Borough and Township repeated this week the directions for reporting a fire.

In case of fire, dial:

924-4141 (Borough police) or

921-2100 (Township police)

Tell the police your address and the nature of the fire (oven, car, house, etc.) A police car and a piece of fire apparatus will respond.

If it's night and you can't see the dial, dial "0." This will be a Trenton operator, so YOU MUST SAY WHETHER YOU LIVE IN BOROUGH OR TOWNSHIP.

In a recent case, a homeowner dialed "0" to report a Mercer Street fire and the operator dispatched the apparatus to Mercer Street, Trenton.

Firemen suggest you clip this box and keep it near the telephone for reference.

A class on the geological history of the earth will be conducted by Erling Dorf. He will analyze geological features leading to an understanding of the chronologic changes in the earth's surface as well as in the life of the past.

William G. Moulton will lecture on linguistics, a course covering the history, grammar, phonetics and dialects of various languages and how they have been influenced by usage.

Interior decorating will be discussed by Mrs. Peter Budd. The emphasis will be on the needs of the young homemaker with a limited budget.

SIX ARE FINED

In Traffic Court. Six Princeton drivers were fined Monday by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr.

Miss Helgi Kuresaar, 20, 280 Edgerstoune Road, paid two fines of $15 each, one for speeding and the second as an unlicensed driver. Jerome S. Gilder, 24, 12 Shady Brook Lane, was fined $22 for speeding.

For careless driving, Joseph Cooke, 28, 113 Alexander Street, paid $25 and had his license revoked for 90 days. David A. Bennett, 18, 60 Meadowbrook Drive, and Forrest C. Greyvold, 18, 244 Fisher Place, Penns Neck, were each fined $15 for throwing firecrackers from their moving car on Nassau Street, while an improper turn violation drew a $12 fine from Mrs. Dorothy Willner, 38, 50 Pine Street.

SELMA, SPACE WALK, VIET NAM . . . AND PDS? Margery Burt, (left) Cathy Morgan (center) and Sally Myers are right in step in listing the March on Selma, the walk in space and the war in Viet Nam as their choices for the major event of 1965. Cathy, however, couldn't resist adding a plug for the Princeton Day School which opened this fall for the first time. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: What do you consider to be the major event of 1965?

Where asked: Nassau Street

Toby Robison, 415-B Devereux Avenue, technical staff, music department, Princeton University. Well, I think it would be the decision to employ a massive troop build-up in Viet Nam and generally to carry on a larger war there. Certainly, this has the largest implications of anything that has happened this year.

Clarence Grant, Theological Seminary student: I think the march on Selma and the implications it had . . . the President and Congress responding the passing of the voting rights bill . . . all will have a far reaching effect, especially in the southern states. The death of Adlai Stevenson would be a second choice.

Jack Ainsworth, Penns Neck, Princeton High School senior: The rendezvous between Gemini 6 and Gemini 7 — the whole thing!

Richard Wood Jr., Madison, Wis., graduate student, University of Wisconsin: The sending of American troops to Santo Domingo. I think this was unfortunate and the turning point in our relationships with the countries of Latin America.

William Roblin, Princeton Junction, University senior: I think you would have to say the Viet Nam issue with the demonstrations here for and against it and its international repercussions. It is in the news every day. Any single event would be the space flights.

Mrs. Jean Goeke, Van Kirk Road, cashier: The meeting in space between our astronauts. It was a great accomplishment for us. I hope we can further our space program next year.

Cathy Morgan, 18 Hibben Road, Princeton Day School, eighth grade: The walk in space by astronaut White — and the establishment of PDS.

Sally Myers, 24 Hibben Road, Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart, freshman: I'd say the march on Selma was perhaps the biggest thing. It made the people realize the position of the Negro and it was a great advance for the cause of Civil Rights.

Margery Burt, 108 Mercer Street, Princeton Day School, freshman: I think the Viet Nam war was the foremost event; it was in the news all the time. I think it affected everybody in this country.

Otto Marcoline, 24 Maple Street mason: The Pope's visit to America.

Julius Coles, Graduate College, graduate student: The Johnson administration's escalation of the war in Viet Nam. Number two: the invasion of Santo Domingo by the United States.

Ken Cavanaugh, Graduate College, graduate student: I think Brigette Bardot's visit to this country has to be listed first. Seems to me all other events, in comparison, are of small significance.

Hilary Brown, 52 Hartley Avenue, Princeton Day School, eighth grade: When I went to see the Rolling Stones in Philadelphia — live and in the flesh!

Carl Anderson, 100 Stockton Street, Theological Seminary student: I suppose, due to the fact that it is fresh in my mind, the rendezvous in space. But, in reflecting even if this happened earlier in the year, say six months ago, I'd still say this is definitely the event of the year. It has the most significance, more so than any of our political happenings.

Thomas Cleary, 406-B Butler Avenue, graduate student, English: The Viet Nam war — I think this will have the most extensive repercussions.

Robert Korman, 371 Riverside Drive, PHS freshman: I think it was the space walk, the first one by Commander White. I feel that was a major step in our exploration of outer space.

Miss Suzanne Clauson, Kendall Park, student at Douglas: De Gaulle's difficulty in winning reelection as President of France. I was very surprised to learn that he wasn't as popular as he was supposed to be. Now, I feel his power and his image are declining throughout the world and in France. If he had retired, he would have retired in glory. Because he wanted France to continue under the government he has set up, a government he believes no one but himself can run, he will leave without glory. But perhaps, as he wished, France will continue to be a strong nation.

M.D. Blumenfeld, 39 Randall Road, plant manager: The escalation of the war in Viet Nam will have the most far-reaching implications—without a doubt.

Carey McCaughan, 107 Snowden Lane, Valley Road eighth-grader: The great accomplishment of the rendezvous in space and the long time our astronauts stayed up—all that.

Susan Schafer, 364 Jefferson Road, Valley Road eighth-grader: I think it's Viet Nam because if the Communists win they will take over that area of the world bit by bit. I think we should get out. Even if we do win, we have already had a great loss.

Mary Lapidus, 149 Glenreath Drive, Valley Road eighth-grader: The space rendezvous, because it furthered the development of our space research and therefore makes our first trip to the moon that much closer.

NEEDS ARE CRUCIAL

For Higher Education. "We have to get a sense of lift in public education which we haven't had before in New Jersey," observed Dr. Robert F. Goheen, president of Princeton University, at a press conference held on higher education in the state.

Dr. Goheen is chairman of the Citizens Committee for Higher Education In New Jersey. He called the conference to announce the Committee's 22 recommendations for a long-term plan to improve the quality and quantity of public higher education in the state.

Highlights:

● The state needs an immediate capital outlay for higher education, of $150 million plus subsequent appropriations of $55-60 million per year for the next five years for a total of $427 million capital expenditure by 1975. "Financing needn't all come from a broad-based tax," Dr. Goheen said. "It could come from bond issues, pay-as-you-go appropriations, or in the future, from Federal funds under the Higher Education Facilities Act."

● New Jersey should strengthen, expand and make more flexible its organization structure for higher education. "We will suggest meaningful choices to the executive agencies," explained Dr. Goheen. "And just tell them what to do."

● The state must provide annual operating funds of $44 million immediately, climbing to $126 million per annum by '75.

● Public institutions must plan to increase enrollments from 32,000 in 1965 to at least 134,000 in 1975. This year, 4,000 sons and daughters of New Jersey taxpayers were refused admission as freshmen to Rutgers and 6,000 denied admission to the six state colleges," Dr. Goheen stated.

● Private institutions should increase their enrollments from 31,000 currently to at least 62,000 in 1975. "Of Princeton University's 3,180 undergraduates, 15% are New Jersey residents," Dr. Goheen said, "28% of the graduate students are residents of the state. These percentages will probably remain the same."

The committee is particularly concerned over lack of a master plan for higher education to deal with the 100,000 additional New Jersey high school graduates who will be seeking college admission over the next ten years. "Such a master plan is the state's job, not the committee's job," Dr. Goheen commented.

The committee's aim is to make New Jersey residents aware of the state's inadequacy in the whole range of higher education, and to line up public support for measures which will provide a sound, long-range solution.

BOARD MAKING PLANS

For Hospital Auxiliary. Members of the executive board of the Women's Auxiliary of Princeton Hospital have been meeting regularly to discuss the work of volunteer committees in service of the hospital, particularly in regard to assisting with such projects as the Christmas Boutique and the Fete. Receiving added attention during the coming year will be the need for frequent communication among members of the Auxiliary and the need for increased membership.

Members of the executive board of the Auxiliary include: Mrs. Charles B. Hanan, president; Mrs. John R. Sheehan, vice-president; Mrs. Irving S. Ness, treasurer; Mrs. William Adamson Jr., assistant treasurer; Mrs. Dewitt Boice, recording secretary; Mrs. William Besser, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Sidney Blaxill, membership chairman; and Mrs. Paul Benson, nominating chairman.

Also, Mrs. Henry G. Munson, hospital aid representative; Mrs. William L. Wilson, chairman of the hospital volunteers; Mrs. Jules Hebert, hospitality chairman; Mrs. Donald W. Griffin, gardens and grounds; Mrs. William R. Pontbriand, projects; Mrs. A. C. Reeves Hicks, hospital picture service; Mrs. James C. Stretch, publicity; Mrs. Glenn Mohrmann, public relations; and Mrs. John J. Fisher, representative to the Council of Community Services.

SIX SPEEDERS HALTED

Three More on Points. Nine Princeton area drivers have had their licenses suspended by the Division of Motor Vehicles, six for speeding and three under the point system.

Halted for 30 days each are: Charlotte L. Krick, 20, 54 N. Tulane Street; Christoph J. Idone Jr., 28, 172 Nassau Street; Donald C. Perrine, 35, of Cranbury; and Robert M. White, 44, 3 E. Welling Avenue, Pennington. Walter T. Ringle, 33, 788 Brunswick Pike, Princeton, lost his for 60 days, and John O. Ribsam, 20, 400 Redding Avenue, Pennington, one month.

Exceeding the point limit are Danford A. Cruser, 18, 37 William Street, and Roy K. Foster, 19, East Mt. Road, Belle Mead, both grounded for 45 days, and Elizabeth Santowasso, 27, 255 Nassau Street, one month.

PUBLIC TO BENEFIT

From Telephone Tax Cut. Reduction of the federal excise tax from 10% to 3% on telephone bills will save New Jersey customers $28 million in 1966, according to the Bell Telephone Company. The cut will be reflected in bills received in January.

A further reduction of 1% a year will take place until the tax is eliminated by January 1969. The company estimates that customers will save $40 million annually thereafter.

ANTI-FREEZE BUBBLES

To Protect Dam. Air bubbles rising from the bottom of Lake Carnegie will bring up enough warm water this winter to protect the dam from ice damage.

Foster Jacobs, the University's superintendent of grounds and buildings announced the new system this week. The bubbler system consists of an air compressor and a length of copper pipe in which small holes have been drilled every two feet. The pipe is at the bottom of the lake at the base of the dam.

When water temperature drops below freezing, a thermostat turns on the compressor. Air bubbles then rise from the bottom with the therapeutic warm water.

Ice erosion has caused considerable damage to the dam over the years, Mr. Jacobs said, and major repairs will probably be made next spring.

A white rope with warning flags will be stretched across the lake above the dam to warn skaters away from open water.

DONORS ARE LISTED

To "Santa Claus Fund." Several dozen business firms and a number of individuals contributed to the fund raised each year for Henry Schultz, the octogenarian blind Princetonian who has been the town's "Telephone Santa Claus" for more than a decade and a half.

Arrangements for the traditional service and solicitation for the contributions are carried out by the Women's Club of Princeton. Mr. Schultz answered score upon score of calls during the ten days before Christmas and this week thanked the many donors who have contributed to his livelihood for the months ahead.

Merchants and friends who have contributed to the program include Allen's, Andy's

Dr. Solomon Lefschetz, 81, emeritus professor of mathematics at Princeton University, will be honored at an international mathematics symposium weekend at the University of Puerto Rico. Approximately 100 of the world's leading mathematicians will attend.

Concern over Soviet space achievements brought Dr. Lefschetz out of retirement at the age of 73 to organize at the Martin Company's Research Institute for Advanced study, Baltimore, the group now known as the Center for Dynamical Systems at Brown University, where Dr. Lefschetz is at present a visiting professor. The Center and the Air Force Office of Scientific Research are co-sponsors of the symposium.

Last year, Dr. Lefschetz, a member of the Princeton faculty for nearly 30 years, received the National Medal of Science from President Johnson in recognition of his contributions.

Six members of the Princeton faculty will take part in the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science this weekend in Berkeley, Calif. Dr. Robert D. Saturday morning the Telephone Excise Tax will be reduced

You get all the savings

The telephone bills you receive beginning January 1, 1966, will reflect a cut from the present 10% to 3% in the Federal Excise Tax on your service, both local and long distance. Your savings in a year's time will amount to almost the cost of one month's phone service. In 1967, the tax will be lowered to 2%, then to 1% in 1968, and completely eliminated in 1969.

This tax has always been paid by you, the telephone customer. Now that it is being reduced, the full savings will be yours. You will be getting more phone service for your dollar.

CHRISTMAS NO BLESSING

For Tiger Basketball Team. The pleasures of the holiday season aside, Princeton's basketball team would have been just as happy if it hadn't had a week off to partake of the traditional Yuletide activities.

In short, the layoff obviously affected its play when it returned, to the wars Monday night in Charlotte, N. C., where it contributed frequently to its own downfall. The Tigers lost to North Carolina, 71 to 65, and throughout most of the second half, it was no contest.

Undoubtedly, the most frustrated of the Princetonians was junior Bill Koch, who had returned for Christmas to his home town of Hinsdale, Ill. fresh with memories of the best game of his career, against neighboring Illinois of the Big Ten. Koch had beaten beautifully with the Haarlow brothers (also of Hinsdale), scoring a dozen points that played a major part in the 81-84 upset that came Princeton's way.

Inserted in the North Carolina fray early in the first half, he found it impossible to recover any semblance of the form he had shown before the Christmas break. By half-time, he had a debit of four personal fouls, no points at all and that was where the statistics stood at the end of the evening.

Other experiences were cut of the same cloth. Don Rodenbach hit for ten points in the first half, turned cold as ice when play resumed and never connected again.

Captain Bob Haarlow reinjured a chronically weak ankle with seven minutes gone and had to sit out the rest of the game. Brother John, the only Princeton player within memory to average in double figures while playing in a reserve capacity, was scoreless at half-time, finally got eight before the buzzer.

Many "Turnovers." The Tigers' problem was, however, more of a lack of polish than the troubles any individuals encountered. Time after time they came downcourt without getting off a shot because they were called for traveling or lost the ball on out-of-bounds passes.

Contrary to many non-Ivy opponents Princeton meets, North Carolina played defensive basketball, and it bothered the Orange and Black with considerable consistency. The Ivy League season is about to begin with some question remaining as to the Tigers' ability to handle an all-court press. At Charlotte on Monday, it was often tough for them.

To Princeton's credit was the fact that it played a satisfactory first half, trailing only by three (35-32) at the intermission. The Tigers had a 14-11 edge in field goals despite a rountine shooting average of 42% and trailed only because they had fouled the Tarheels' prolific scorer, Bob Lewis, so frequently in an attempt to block his field goals.

Lewis had 22 points in the first period — ten of them free throws. Guarded less closely when play resumed, his output dwindled to four field goals and a lone foul toss.

Princeton led by a point or two in the early action, but fell behind 10-9 and never regain-the upper hand. It did reduce an eight-point deficit (31-23) to three just before the buzzer and there was hope of a typical second-half rally despite the fact that Ed Hummer

We were told that as far back as can be researched no two sets of fingerprints have ever been found identical, not even the prints of identical twins, or triplets. Archaeologists have found evidence indicating widespread use of fingerprints for personal identification throughout the past 2,000 years. Chinese tablets believed to date back to 200 B.C. bear fingerprints with clear, firm impressions, probably to identify the author. A clay tablet bearing testimony of a Babylonian officer from an even earlier period certified that he was authorized to make arrests and secure fingerprints of defendents. The F.B.I. file of fingerprint cards are for the protection of individuals for proper identification . . . not just criminal identification. All fingerprint files of criminals are maintained separately. Our file of satisfied customers keeps growing for we know that your welfare is also our welfare. Bill Bradley Is Gone, But Honors Continue to Accumulate

Everybody's All-American in basketball last season, then a Rhodes Scholar, now a nominee for the highest award offered by the Amateur Athletic Union — that's the latest chapter in the never-ending legend of Bill Bradley.

The player who holds virtually every Princeton and Ivy League record and a number in the NCAA book is one of 14 athletes who will be voted upon for the James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy. Balloting will be conducted among some 600 sports administrators, officials, sportswriters and sportscasters, with results to be announced in about a month.

Because the AAU is most closely aligned with two sports — track and swimming — award of the Sullivan Trophy to an athlete who has distinguished himself outside those two fields is a rarity. Not since 1949, when figure-skater Dick Button, a two-time Olympic champion, was named the recipient has the award gone to other than a swimmer or a track star.

Bradley is the lone male nominee outside the sphere of these two sports on the ballot for his accomplishments in 1965. He is cited for his unanimous selection on every All-America team, for having led Princeton to third place in the NCAA Tournament and the United States to the championship in the World Student Games staged in Budapest. A year earlier, of course, he had been captain of the United States Olympic team which won the basketball gold medal.

Other Nominees. Of the 13 others up for consideration, one would receive the Sullivan Trophy posthumously if he were selected. He is the late Captain Ronald Zinn, who won more than 20 national AAU walking titles as a West Pointer. He was killed in Viet Nam on July 7.

Of the remaining 12, four are women: Cathy Ferguson, national women's indoor AAU 100 and 200-yard backstroke champion for two straight years; Martha Randall, a record-breaker in freestyle swimming at 17; Wyomia Tyus, national AAU indoor and outdoor women's champion and record-holder at 100 yards and 100 meters; and Nera White, who led Nashville Business College to its fourth straight women's basketball title and has been an All-American for 11 years.

Also included on the list are Ralph Boston, world's record holder in the long jump; Randy Matson, world record holder in the shotput; Dick Roth, the world's top medley swimmer; Jim Ryun, the first schoolboy to better the 4-minute mile and holder of the American record at 3:55.3 in a race that saw him beat world-record holder Peter Snell of New Zealand.

THE REASON WHY: Basketball ability such as this gracefully-achieved field goal despite pressing attention from his Cornell opponents has resulted in the nomination of Bill Bradley for the Sullivan Trophy. Story, this page.

and Gary Walters both had three fouls in addition to Koch's four.

The surge never materialized. North Carolina raising its advantage to 11 points in the first four minutes as Princeton missed one shot after another. Sophomore Dove Lawyer contributed 11 points in a reserve capacity and Hummer bettered his season's average with 15 on the evening, but the Tigers' shooting percentage fell below 40 for the first time this season and the victors controlled play completely in the last 20 minutes.

Princeton began its invasion of North Carolina territory with a fine shooting average of 52%, such marksmanship tempered, however, by foul-shooting that was no better than 65%. Inaccuracy from the foul line was responsible for the lone loss — the 68-66 upset at the hands of Rutgers — in the first six games the Tigers played.

Don Rudenbach, a senior with three straight years as a starter on the team to his credit, was high man with a 15.2 average. Sophomore John Haarlow, playing in a reserve capacity in all of the first six games, was nonetheless runner up in scoring with a 12.7 average, while Ed Hummer was also in double figures with 11.2.

This week's play in holiday action marks Princeton's final appearance during the regular season against non-Ivy opponents. Defense of the league title the Tigers have won for last three years begins the weekend of January 7 and 8.

Yale is on the schedule at New Haven on the first night of the road trip, with Brown on tap the following evening at Providence. Although not rated a title threat, the Elis will be tough to beat at home.

Princeton's first Dillon Gym appearance in more than a month is scheduled for Friday, January 14, against Dartmouth, with Harvard here the following night. The Tigers will then be idle for term-end examinations until they entertain Pennsylvania in a televised contest on the afternoon of Saturday, January 29.

In pre-Christmas league games, Columbia edged Cornell by one point in New York and Yale topped Brown at Providence, then losing to Cornell at Ithaca. A four-way battle among Columbia, Cornell, Penn and Princeton figures as a strong possibility, with an 11-3 mark almost certainly good enough for at least a share of first place. Unless one of the contenders shows an unexpected ability to win on the road, even 10-4 might earn a playoff berth this winter.

will seek to improve on its 2-4 record this weekend when it plays at Buffalo in the annual Nichols School Tournament. Last year, the Tigers defeated Dartmouth but lost to Yale in the finals.

Coach John Wilson's sextet has been drawn against Harvard in the opening round, facing a well-balanced Crimson team Friday night at 6:30. Dartmouth and Yale will meet in the second game, with winners and losers playing each other Saturday evening.

Outstanding sophomore strength, plus some good holdover material, has instilled Harvard as the favorite to replace Yale as tournament champion. The other three entries are about on a par, none of them able to attain the .500 mark in early action against tough opposition. Princeton is 2-4, Dartmouth 1-3 and Yale 1-5.

The Tigers lost their first two games to Northeastern and Boston University, won a pair from Army and Brown, the latter a resounding upset over the defending Ivy champions, and then dropped their next to Boston College and Providence. Following their games at Buffalo, they'll begin formal Ivy action with a trip to Ithaca on January 8 to face Cornell.

WILL CLINIC WORK?

Racquet Club to Try. The Princeton Racquet Club has begun an experimental indoor clinic for boys in the sixth and seventh grades to contribute to the development of junior talent in the Princeton area.

Conducted in cooperation with the Princeton Community Tennis Program, the clinic meets every Saturday from 2 to 3:30. Instructors volunteering their assistance are John Conroy, Eve Kraft, William Humes, Joseph Diefenbach, Norman Van Arsdalen, Thomas Southerland, Bayard Jordan, Virginia Minor, Linda Coralette, Dorothy Katz and Anne Clark.

The club, in cooperation with the Princeton YWCA, will sponsor a women's indoor class, starting January 11 and from 12:30 until 2 and continuing each succeeding Tuesday for 10 consecutive weeks. Information about registering may be obtained from the YWCA office.

Physical education majors and teachers, camp counselors and recreation leaders who wish to learn how to teach tennis are invited to attend either the boys' or women's clinic as observers. The club's new court is located on Raymond Road, four miles north of Princeton just off Route 27.

ETS WINS AGAIN, 57-36

And Van Nostrand Climbs. Educational Testing Service won its fifth in a row last week without a defeat, and Van Nostrand climbed into fourth place in the YMCA Research and Industrial League with a 46-36 victory over Hospital.

Paul Harmon was instrumental in helping ETS preserve its string, dropping in 27 points to lead his teammates to a 57-30 victory over Western Electric. Top scorer for the losers was Doug Podgett with 8 points.

Jim Clark hit for a game high of 23 points but it wasn't enough: RCA dropped its fifth straight, losing this time to Film Center, 64-50. Tony Bocanfuso's 21 was topo for the victors.

In the last of three played at the Princeton High court, Van Nostrand won its second in five starts. Hospital was its 46-36 victim. David Gallagher of Van Nostrand and Wallace Whitsett of Hospitl were each high for his team with 14 and 11 points.

The standings:

ETS	5	0	1.000
Film Center	4	1	.800
Western Elec.	3	2	.600
Van Nostrand	2	3	.400
Hospital	1	4	.200

BOWLING NOTES

242 by Mike Kopliner. In action last week in the Tri-County Firemen League at the Princeton Recreation Center, Mike Kopliner rolled a high single game of 242. Because of the holiday period, only three leagues were active.

Other high fireman scores were those of Ray Slovinsky, 219; Elmer Peranioni and Bip Davison, both 210s; John Willis, 202 and a pair of 201s by George and Norm Lack.

Team standings continue to be tight as six points separates the top five teams. Currently on top is Mercer No. 2 with 54 points. Second is Hightstown 115.1, with 51 followed by Princeton Junction with 50, Princeton No. 1 and Lawrenceville are tied for fourth with 48 points apiece.

Mike Basile rolled a 616 series in the Three-Man Classic League on games of 186-225-205. Guido Zinetti claimed a 219 game and Ed Hughes had a 218.

Team standings remained unchanged. The top top three are Decker's Dairy, Johnson Electric and Turney Motors with 23½, 27½ and 23½ points respectively.

Bill Dumble tied Kopliner for high single game and Basile for high series when he rolled a 616 series in the Nassau Lague. His games were 242-173-201. Ron Maddalon rolled a 234 and Vince Tufano a 228.

Mike Pinelli had a 208. Even 200s were attained by Tom Brophy, Walt Kozachek and Bill Senterall.

Liquor is in first place in league standings, trailed by Thorne Pharmacy, 54, and Italian A.S.C., 52. Two points farther back are Brophy's and Tiger Garage with 50 each.

Majors One Game Back. Majors is only one game behind Imlaystons-Heating, the leader in the Night Owls League. Greenwood Girls and First National Bank are tied for third.

In action last week at the Princeton Bowl, Greenwood Girls captured the high series with 1659, and Decker's Dairy took high team mark with 575. A high individual series of 455 was fashioned by Jean McWhal while Sarah Hemerdinger rolled a high single game of 169.

Other high individual games were Miss McNeel, 167, and Claire Wortelman 156. Joan Smith, a sub, had 177.

RALLY WINS FOR TIGERS

In Narrow 69-67 Triumph. If you can outscore an opponent, 24 to 3, in the first nine minutes of the second half, indications are you'll win comfortably. At Charlotte, N.C., Tuesday night, Princeton's basketball team did outpoint Mississippi State by just such a margin, but it's far from comfortable ten seconds before the end.

The Tigers somehow managed to dissipate most of a 15-point lead in the closing minutes, to the extent that they were barely hanging on, 69-67. Gary Walters missed on a one-and-one situation, the southerners brought the ball down court and the shot that would have tied the score went through the basket just after the buzzer had sounded.

A see-saw first half in which neither team played well saw Mississippi State leave the floor with a 37-31 advantage. The cooling-off period had just the opposite effect on Princeton, which returned to the floor sizzling like a broiling steak.

Controlling both backboards and fast-breaking to perfection, the Tigers rode the opposition into the ground as they drew even at 37-all and then raised the margin to 55-40 with 11:30 to go. The losers switched from a 1-3-1 zone to man-to-man and back to a zone all to no avail.

Once again, it was sophomore John Haarlow who led the surge as he hit for 18 points, 16 of them in the second half Classmate Dave Lawyer also finished strong, playing much of the contest and scoring 12 points.

With five minutes to go, Princeton cooled off almost as rapidly as it had heated up, State gaining control on a steady press and hitting where it had been unable to before. Four successive free throws by Lawyer on one-an-one situations were all that halted the Tigers out.

They were scheduled to face Navy, upset victor over Davidson, in Wednesday night's final. Having whipped the middies, 72-54, at Annapolis earlier this month, the question facing Princeton was whether it could do so again with the highly-erratic brand of ball that had been marking its post-Christmas play.

PHS TOPS LONG BRANCH

To Win Asbury Tourney. With four players scoring in double figures, Princeton High School defeated Long Branch Tuesday night at Asbury Park to win the Asbury Round Robin holiday tournament. The score was 81 to 67.

Captain Wilbur Hines hit 12 times from the floor and added three free throws for a game-high 27 points. The Mutt and Jeff of the Little Tigers — 5-7 Ed McKenzie and 6-4 Tom Wood each enjoyed their best performances of the season, tallying 20 and 15 points respectively.

Coach Tony Borzok stayed with an iron man five the entire evening. Ken Lyons, the fourth to reach double figures, hit for 10 and Bill McQuade followed with 9. The 81 points were the highest recorded by The Blue and White this season.

Long Branch took an early lead and was ahead 19-16 at the end of the first quarter. The deficit was made up in the second, when PHS spurted for 27 points, while limiting the losers to 18 to take a lead it never relinquished. At the final line, PHS had a 17-5 margin.

HARMONY IS GOAL

Of Sweet Adelines. Hoping to "harmonize the world" with a song, the Kendallie Chapter of the Sweet Adelines, Inc., has spread women's barbershop chorus singing to Princeton.

The Kendallie Chapter, chartered in 1960 when the wives of men belonging to the Brunswick Barbershop Chorus formed their own singing group, moved this fall from Monmouth Junction to Princeton. According to Linda Andrews, publicity chairman for the organization, membership increased following the move but "there is always room for more."

The chorus, which meets each Monday at 8:30 at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Nassau and Chambers Streets, specializes in performing for the public. The group has entertained at many charitable affairs and civic meetings.

Larry Blazer, a junior at Westminster Choir College, was selected by the membership to serve as conductor after auditions in September. The son of a Presbyterian minister, he holds a degree from the College of the Ozarks in Missouri. He is a voice major at Westminster and is studying for a Bachelor of Music Education Degree. In addition to directing the Sweet Adelines, he leads the choir at All Saints Episcopal Church in Highland Park.

Miss Andersen commented, "If a woman likes to sing, even if she can't read music or hasn't a trained voice, she is welcome to attend rehearsals."

Miss Andersen, a Griggstown resident, is secretary of the organization. Other officers are Mrs. Clyde Hartshorn, president, president; Mrs. Robert Richards, vice-president; Mrs. Raymond Giovannelli, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Gebler, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Thomas Kelley, all of Kendall Park, historian.

WATCH THAT GARBAGE!

Slow It Carefully. Garbage, improperly wrapped and carelessly dropped into inadequate containers, is a growing problem in the Borough, and Administrator Robert Mooney this week issued his second warning to householders in as many months that they must process their garbage correctly.

All garbage must be placed in a water-tight container with a secure lid which dogs cannot open. Garbage may not be wrapped in paper and left on the curb.

Dogs are one of the chief problems, Mr. Mooney pointed out because they can get into garbage cans if the lids are not securely fastened down, and they can ex cuse a black paper-wrapped garbage.

If householders continue to disregard the Borough's requests, Mr. Mooney said, he will institute garbage men not to pick up garbage unless it is properly contained. Litter that remains strewn over the ground eventually becomes a health problem and the Borough Health Department may move in.

In addition, Mr. Mooney asked householders not to leave garbage cans at the curbs after the collection has been made. Cans are to be removed after they have been emptied.

The administrator also pointed to sidewalk litter in the business district. Borough ordinance requires the owner of a property to keep the sidewalk clean, and merchants in stores as well as to home-owners.

Most shop-keepers are tenants. Mr. Mooney observed, but he said that the Borough can crack down on the landlords who may, in turn, be expected to require their tenants to obey the ordinance.

$100 IS TAKEN

From Window Cleaning Co. The Princeton Window Cleaning Co. reported to Township police last week that $100 from a cash register and a $300 waxing machine had been taken from its building at 266 Witherspoon Street. Police reported the theft took place between 9 p.m. Thursday night and the following morning.

There was no forced entry, but a front door nearest the main office was found ajar, police said. Inside, the cash register and several cabinets had been ransacked.

The day after Christmas, Bernard Weinstein, 30 Nassau Street, told police that a plastic donation container with about $8 in coins had been taken from his store, Somerset Stationers, 86 Nassau St. The box contained donations for the Children's Hospital Association which had been formed this year under Mr. Weinstein's leadership.

Mr. Weinstein told police that the thief took the box to the rear of the store near the telephone booth, opened it and then left it there. At the time of the theft, the store was being run by his son, Larry.

SOUND GENERAL ALARM

For Shirley Court Fire. A general alarm was sounded at 9:41 p.m. Sunday for a fire at 6 Shirley Court. Although the fire was negligible, a general alarm was sounded because of the density of homes in the area.

At first, firemen were unable to locate the origin of the smoke pouring into the kitchen of the home of James Hall. Then, after knocking some stuff loose, they ma-

ADD NEW COURSES

To Art Group Program. Classes in sculpture and water color technique will be introduced to the winter program of the Princeton Art Association. The ten-week term begins the week of January 10 in the PAA studios, 14 Nassau Street. A full schedule of classes appears on page 20.

Robert Barnes, whose work is in private collections throughout the East and Europe, will conduct the sculpture classes from 1 to 3 p.m. on Tuesday afternoons. A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and currently associated with the Perl Fox Gallery, Philadelphia, he has taught at the Philadelphia Museum College of art and exhibited in both group and one-man shows in the Philadelphia area.

Basic instruction in the handling of transparent water color will be given by Mrs. Vera McKinley, owner of the Owl's Nest Gallery, New Hope, on Tuesdays from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Emphasis will be placed on a "wet-in-wet" technique, with later sessions including instruction in combining transparent water color with other mediums, such as artists' cement, crayons and similar materials which constitute a resist method of painting.

Saturday mornings will be devoted to classes for young people. Drawing and painting for children eight through 12 will be taught by Mrs. Rosemary Blair of Kingston, a former student of Dong Kingman, who teaching are in the Princeton schools on a substitute basis. Mrs. Blair will emphasize basic techniques of drawing and painting, progressing from charcoal to water color.

TRUSTEES APPOINTED

To County College Board. Five Princeton area residents are among those named to the board of trustees of the Mercer County Community College. Leaders in education will hold five of the nine seats with business, banking, law and labor being represented by one member each.

Educators named from this area are Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president emeritus of Princeton University; Dr. Henry Chauncey, president of Educational Testing Service; Richard Pearson, president of the College Entrance Examination Board; and Henry N. Drewry, chairman of the department of social studies, Princeton High School. Mrs. Peggy Kearney McNeill of Lawrenceville, president of the Trenton Times, was also named.

The new board, announced by Freeholder Richard J. Coffee, will set up a timetable

MUSEUM ASKS AID

School Boards Would Sponsor. The Princeton Junior Museum has asked the Township School Board to serve as sponsor and fiscal agent for an $8,500 grant from the which Federal funds would be used for an expanded Junior Museum program. The Museum has approached the Borough Board of Education, the Township Board at its December meeting authorized Superintendent John J. McKenna to go ahead and file application forms alone if the Borough decided not to.

Under the terms of the program, the Museum would organize operate and staff the project and the schools would serve as fiscal agents only.

Dr. McKenna told the board that the Museum might ask the Borough for operating space, presumably in the old Fire Engine Co. No. 1 building. The superintendent also pointed out that the project must compete with many other projects throughout the state for the $3,150,000 allotted to New Jersey under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Beauty ON THE SQUARE

The incidence of thinning hair and even baldness does seem to be increasing Due to this, I have been giving more and more attention to causes, effects and treatments.

Some hair loss is natural for a woman. New hair comes to replace it, and there is no cause for alarm But many women are losing their hair through abusive treatment. Some of the things that cause hair breakage also cause it to fall out — such as sleeping on hair "tensed" in rollers.

I have seen the results of pulling the hair back tight in a ponytail or bun — receding hairline, a balding spot under the place where the ponytail is secured, damage to hair follicles that may be permanent. Securing the ponytail with a rubber band also breaks the hair.

Women just don't seem to realize the wrong they are doing to their hair by trying to do it themselves.

Have your hair treated in luxury by an experienced hairdresser in every phase of hairdressing at TAYERWOOD BEAUTY MANOR, 69 Palmer Square West. Call 924-3983.

NEW COLONIAL . . . in a choice neighboring community, less than 10 minutes from the Shopping Center, here is an excellent country home. Living room with fireplace, separate dining room, paneled family room center hall, beautiful kitchen with electric dishwasher and wall oven, 4 bedrooms, 2 baths and powder room. Being so close to Princeton, this fine home, at the asking price, qualifies as one of our Best Buys.

$31,900

PRINCETON AREA . . . only 7 minutes from the Shopping Center, on a country road off the main highway, this large Colonial home has 5 bedrooms, 2 baths and powder room paneled family room, living room with fireplace, center hall, separate dining room, big kitchen with electric dishwasher and wall oven, 2-car garage and an acre of land. $33,500

FOUR BEDROOMS . . . and located on a beautiful lot in Princeton's western section. The owners will really miss this house. They have enjoyed living in it. However, they now need 6 bedrooms . . . If you like to be cozy by the fireplace when winter howls outdoors; if you like a view of dogwoods and a brook in the Spring; if you think that your children and their friends might enjoy one of the most spacious paneled game rooms in our community, perhaps this is the house you've been looking for. Colonial in architecture, with square entry hall, large living room with fireplace, screened porch, separate dining room, big kitchen with breakfast space, 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths. $65,000

Many fine homes in Princeton and vicinity in every price range.

RIVERSIDE . . . here, amid the towering trees of one of Princeton's finest residential areas, is a 3-bedroom, one-story home in perfect condition. Entry hall, large living room, separate dining room, 3 bedrooms, 2 full baths. Quiet street, off the main road, get close to school. An ideal home for a small family, or for a couple contemplating retirement.

(Sole Agent) $42,000

PERFECT . . . on two acres in Princeton's beautiful western section, under a magnificent old white oak, this charming one-story home has a foyer leading to bath living and bedroom wing, a large living room, with fireplace, opening into a paneled library, a spacious dining room, and what is, perhaps, the most practical and complete kitchen in Princeton. 3 Bedrooms, 2 large baths, many big closets, a lovely terrace screened by trees and shrubs. Almost a small estate, the house could be enlarged without crowding the property.

$67,500

CONTEMPORARY . . . located in an acre of woods. This unusual home — the subject of an article in "House Beautiful" . . . has a terrace as long as the house, a swimming pool, central air-conditioning, master bedroom & bath, and 2 other bedrooms & bath. Large living and family rooms. Spectacular kitchen. In summer, the window walls make all outdoors seem to be part of the house. In winter, pull the draw draperies (which go with the house, of course), and enjoy all the sunshine you want.

OVER CHRISTMAS

DID IT SUDDENLY STRIKE YOU

HOW BADLY YOU NEED

MORE ROOM?

When you had to double the kids up to find a place for guests to sleep? When there was barely any room left for the family after the tree took over the living room? Or when the children asked to run their trains on the dining room table because there just wasn't any other place? And now don't you wish Dad had a den of his own to pay bills in because now he wants to use the dining room table? Well, we've got the answer. Older Township house in perfect condition has living room and playroom, dining room and den. Five bedrooms, two bathrooms, modern kitchen, attic, basement, and carport. Excellent family location.
